REDEFINE WITH A MASTERS
MSc SOCIAL ENTERPRISE
REDEFINE AT STIRLING
In the UK there are estimated to be around 100,000 social enterprises, contributing £60bn to the UK economy and employing more than 2m people*. As a growing sector, worth around 3% of total UK GDP*, social enterprises are increasingly important not only the economy generally but the future of the business sector.

Our MSc Social Enterprise is aimed at professionals working with social enterprises, advisors, officials, development officers and sector representatives who want to tackle the ongoing challenges of commercial viability, innovation and sustainability within social enterprise organisations. The course is also suitable for anyone with interest or wishing to develop a career in social enterprise.

Through the course you’ll learn how to deliver excellent service and high social value, build and maintain stakeholder support, secure funding as well as how to measure and communicate success. The course also explores the wider political, social and community contexts in which social enterprises operate, with flexibility to gain expertise in specific sectors or business areas depending on your future career goals.

The MSc Social Enterprise provides a formal qualification from which to launch, develop or further your career in an organisation that contributes to social life. Social entrepreneurs often need to be able to compete for contracts and commissions with other agencies. A goal of this course is to give you the skills needed to allow your individual social enterprises to compete effectively and match the credentials of their private sector competitors.

Employment and Research Opportunities

If you’re looking for a career in social enterprise, this course provides an important grounding in the skills, knowledge and expertise needed to succeed in the sector.

Our flexible Masters is designed to suit all individuals, regardless of sector experience or functional business areas. The in-build flexibility allows for specialised expertise in key sectors such as health, social care, housing, education sport, culture and the environment, or in key functional areas such as finance, HRM, marketing, public relations or operational management.

As a graduate of this MSc and a social entrepreneur you’ll understand how added value can be driven by integrating the key functions of your social enterprise, from delivering high social value, to maintaining stakeholder support, securing investment and measuring success more effectively.
The course culminates with a supported project within the social enterprise sector in Scotland and beyond. A formal qualification will help to further your career, your work and your organisation’s contribution to society. Core modules cover key themes for social enterprises, from social innovation, value and responsibility, through to leadership, entrepreneurship and stakeholder participation.

FIVE REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CHOOSE THIS COURSE

1. The in-built flexibility of the course means you can tailor aspects to your own career aspirations.

2. You can put your learning into practice on a supported project to conduct research and development.

3. The course culminates with a supported project within the social enterprise sector in Scotland and beyond.

4. Five reasons why you should choose this COURSE
The course is designed to be flexible and to suit the needs of our students. At the heart of the course are our core modules and innovative Social Enterprise Project, to be combined with optional modules to suit individual students.

Course delivery will be a mix of full day teaching and online resource support. Teaching days will be spread at regular intervals throughout each semester.

On each core module a day is dedicated to a ‘Masterclass’ for the social enterprise sector in Scotland. You’ll work with detailed case studies and input from industry representatives to provide a high-quality learning experience. This is further enhanced with a range of web-based resources to support and reinforce learning on the course.

Assessment will be through a mix of coursework, presentations, online participation and an important social enterprise research project. The project will contribute to the Social Enterprise Laboratory at Stirling.
